ICN ANTI-CARTEL ENFORCEMENT TEMPLATE

IMPORTANT NOTES:

This template is intended to provide information for the ICN member competition agencies about each other's legislation concerning anticompetitive practices, particularly hardcore cartels. At the same time the template supplies information for businesses who may be involved in cartel conduct and the rules applicable to them; moreover, it enables businesses and individuals to recognize cartel activity and to obtain information about the possibilities of enforcement of their rights in private law in one or more jurisdictions.

Reading the template is not a substitute for consulting the referenced statutes and regulations. This template should be a starting point only.

1. Information on the law relating to cartels

A. Law(s) covering cartels:	Provisions covering cartels in Canada are found in the Competition Act , R.S.C. 1985, c. C-34 (the Act), primarily under sections 45 (conspiracy), 46 (implementation of foreign directives), and 47 (bid-rigging). The Act is available at: https://laws.justice.gc.ca/eng/acts/C-34/index.html . Amendments to the Act, which included changes to section 45, received Royal Assent on June 23, 2022. Most of the amendments came into force immediately, however, the coming into force of the amendments to section 45 was delayed for one year, until June 23, 2023. Information about the amendments to these sections of the Act can be found at: http://competitionbureau.gc.ca .
	The Act is also available in French.
B. Implementing regulation(s) (if any):	N/A
C. Interpretative guideline(s) (if any):	The Competitor Collaboration Guidelines describe the Competition Bureau's (the Bureau) general approach in applying sections 45 and 90.1 of the Act to collaborations between competitors.

	https://www.competitionbureau.gc.ca/eic/site/cb-
	bc.nsf/eng/04582.html.
	The Guidelines are also available in French.
	The Bureau will provide guidance on its enforcement approach to the new wage-fixing and no-poaching provisions of section 45, which come into force on June 23, 2023. This guidance will be available on the website (www.competitionbureau.gc.ca).
D. Other relevant materials (if any):	The Bureau published an updated Immunity and Leniency Bulletin in March 2019.
	https://www.competitionbureau.gc.ca/eic/site/cb-
	bc.nsf/eng/04391.html.
	The Bulletin is also available in French.
	Section 48 of the Act covers conspiracies relating to professional sport. In July 2022, the Bureau published a statement to explain that it will not take action under this section as it is currently written. This was based on legal advice and the fact that this provision is written in a way that presents significant challenges to its enforcement. The statement is available at: https://strategis.ic.gc.ca/eic/site/cb-bc.nsf/eng/04676.html .

2. Scope and nature of prohibition on cartels
A. Does your law or case law	No, the Act does not expressly refer to or define "cartel".
define the term "cartel"? If not, please indicate the term you use instead.	Section 45 of the Act prohibits conspiracies, agreements or arrangements among competitors or potential competitors to, among other things, fix prices, allocate markets and restrict output.
	When the amendments come into force on June 23, 2023, subsection 45 (1.1) will prohibit conspiracies, agreements or arrangements among employers to fix, maintain, decrease or control wages or other terms of employment and to refrain from hiring or soliciting each other's employees.
	Section 46 of the Act prohibits a corporation carrying on business in Canada from implementing a foreign directive for the purpose of giving effect to a conspiracy, combination, agreement or arrangement in violation of section 45.
	Section 47 of the Act prohibits agreements or arrangements between or among two or more persons, in response to a call or request for bids or tenders, to not submit a bid, to submit an agreed or arranged bid or to withdraw a bid, where the agreement or arrangement is not made known to the person calling for or requesting the bids or tenders at or before the time when any bid or tender is submitted or withdrawn.

	The Criminal Code (the Code) also sets out offences which may apply to cartel conduct:
	<ul> <li>Attempting to commit an offence (subsection 24(1));</li> <li>Frauds on the government (subsection 121(1));</li> <li>Fraud (section 380);</li> <li>Attempting to commit an offence or being an accessory after the fact (paragraph 463(b)); and</li> </ul>
B. Does your legislation or case law distinguish between very serious cartel behaviour ("hardcore cartels" – e.g.: price fixing, market sharing, bid rigging or production or sales quotas <sup>1</sup> ) and other types of "cartels"?	- Conspiring to commit offences (section 465). Yes. The criminal conspiracy provision of the Act applies to agreements commonly recognized as the most egregious forms of anti-competitive conduct; namely, agreements between competitors to fix prices, allocate markets or restrict output that in substance have no purpose or consideration other than restraining competition, and which are deserving of condemnation without requiring proof of their anti-competitive effects. As of June 23, 2023, agreements among employers to fix, maintain, decrease or control wages or other terms of employment and to refrain from hiring or soliciting each other's employees will also be criminal offences under the Act.
	Other forms of competitor collaborations, joint ventures and strategic alliances may be subject to review under a civil provision that prohibits agreements only where they are likely to substantially lessen or prevent competition (section 90.1 of the Act).
C. Scope of the prohibition of hardcore cartels:	The Act is a law of general application with the purpose of preventing anti-competitive practices in the marketplace in order to ensure that Canadian businesses and consumers prosper in a competitive and innovative marketplace. The Act applies to most business activity in Canada. The following are some exceptions, exclusions and defences to sections 45 (conspiracy), 46 (implementing foreign directives) and 47 (bid rigging):
	Sections 45 and 46 do not apply to the following: Subsection 45(4) – Ancillary Restraints. The ancillary restraints defence recognizes that some desirable business collaborations reasonably require some restraints to make them efficient, or even possible. An ancillary restraint is an agreement or term of an agreement that contravenes the prohibitions in subsection 45(1), but which is directly related to, and reasonably necessary for giving effect to, a broader and lawful agreement.
	Subsection 45(5) – Agreements that relate only to the export of products from Canada unless the agreement: (a) has resulted in or is likely to result in a reduction or limitation of the real value of exports of a product; (b) has restricted or is likely to restrict any person from entering into or expanding the business of exporting products from Canada; or (c) relates only to the supply of services that facilitate the export of products from Canada.

	Section 45(7) – Regulated Conduct. The regulated conduct doctrine may exempt an agreement from the application of section 45 of the Act, with respect to conduct that is regulated by another federal, provincial or municipal law or legislative regime.
	Paragraph 45(6)(a) - Agreements involving only affiliates. See also section 2 of the Act with regard to affiliates.
	Paragraph 45(6)(b) - Agreements between federal financial institutions (a separate conspiracy provision in section 49 applies).
	Paragraph 45(6)(c) – Agreements that are directly related to, and reasonably necessary for giving effect to, the objective of an arrangement that has been authorized by the Minister of Transport under the Canada Transportation Act .
	Section 90 – Registered Specialization Agreements (as defined in section 85 of the Act).
	Section 47 does not apply to the following: Paragraph 47(3)(a) - Agreements involving only affiliates. See also section 2 of the Act with regard to affiliates.
	Paragraph 47(3)(b) – Agreements directly related to, and reasonably necessary for giving effect to, the objective of a submission or an arrangement that has been authorized by the Minister of Transport under the Canada Transportation Act .
	The Act does not apply to certain agreements or arrangements in respect of: - collective bargaining activities (section 4); - underwriting (subsection 5(1)); and - amateur sport (subsection 6(1)).
	There are other laws containing exemptions from the application of all or some of the provisions of the Act, such as: -Section 33 of the Energy Supplies Emergency Act ; -Section 32 of the Farm Products Agencies Act ; -Section 9 of the Status of the Artist Act , -Section 4 of the Shipping Conferences Exemption Act , and -Section 47 of the Canada Transportation Act .
D la participation in a bardeere
D. Is participation in a hardcore cartel illegal per se <sup>2</sup> ?	Yes, agreements between competitors and/or potential competitors to fix prices, allocate markets and restrict output are per se illegal. As of June 23, 2023, agreements among employers to fix, maintain, decrease or control wages or other terms of employment and to refrain from hiring or soliciting each other's employees will also be per se illegal. Other forms of competitor collaborations, such as joint ventures and strategic alliances, may be subject to review under a civil provision that prohibits agreements only where they are likely to substantially lessen or prevent competition. Bid-rigging is also a per se illegal offence.

E. Is participation in a hardcore cartel a civil or administrative or criminal offence, or a combination of these?	Conspiracies, agreements or arrangements between competitors to fix prices, allocate markets or restrict output of a product (section 45), implementing a foreign directive to give effect to a conspiracy (section 46) and bid-rigging (section 47) are criminal offences. As of June 23, 2023, agreements among employers to fix, maintain, decrease or control wages or other terms of employment and to refrain from hiring or soliciting each other's employees will also be criminal offences.

3. Investigating institution(s)

A. Name of the agency, which investigates cartels:	The Commissioner of Competition (Commissioner), an independent official appointed under the Act by the Governor in Council, has the statutory responsibility to enforce and administer the Act. The Commissioner heads the Competition Bureau (the Bureau), which is comprised of various branches, including the Cartels and Deceptive Marketing Practices Branch. Criminal cartel investigations are conducted by the Cartels Directorate of the Cartels and Deceptive Marketing Practices Branch. Investigations into civil offences under the Act, including some forms of competitor collaborations, are conducted by the Mergers and Monopolistic Practices Branch. Information Centre

The Bureau may seek assistance from other authorities including municipal or provincial police forces and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.
and the type of assistance they provide.	For investigations regarding international cartels, the Bureau may seek assistance from foreign competition agencies and other foreign enforcement authorities through bilateral and multilateral cooperation instruments, mutual legal assistance treaties for criminal matters, and extradition treaties.

4. Decision-making institution(s) <sup>3</sup>
A. Name of the agency making decisions in cartel cases:	The Competition Bureau investigates alleged cartel activity and may refer matters to the Director of Public Prosecutions (DPP) who is responsible for prosecuting criminal offences under federal jurisdiction through lawyers with the Public Prosecution Service of Canada (PPSC). Cartel matters are prosecuted as indictable criminal offences and are judged in the provincial courts of superior jurisdiction or the Federal Court.
B. Contact details of the agency:	See question 3B for the contact details for the Bureau. The following are the contact details for the DPP: Director of Public Prosecutions Public Prosecution Service of Canada 160 Elgin Street - 12th Floor Ottawa, Ontario K1A 0H8 613-957-6489 1-877-505-7772 PPSC-SPPC. C. Contact point for questions and consultations:	See questions 3B and 4B.
D. Describe the role of the investigating agency in the process leading to the sanctioning of the cartel conduct.	Typically, the process starts with an informal preliminary examination which may progress to a formal inquiry under section 10 of the Act (see question 5A). The Commissioner may seek court authority to exercise formal powers of investigation, such as issuing orders for oral examinations or the production of documents and conducting searches (see question 9). Once the inquiry is completed, the Commissioner decides whether to discontinue the inquiry (section 22 of the Act) or to refer the matter under section 23 of the Act to the Attorney General for prosecution.

E. What is the role of the investigating agency if cartel cases belong under criminal proceedings?	See question 4D.

5. Handling complaints and initiation of proceedings
A. Basis for initiating investigations in cartel cases:	Preliminary examinations may begin in various ways, including complaints from the public or a customer, reports from procurement authorities or police forces, whistleblowers or immunity or leniency applicants. They may also be initiated by Bureau staff based on research or media reports that support an assessment that there has been a breach of the Act.
	<ul> <li>Section 10 of the Act provides that the Commissioner shall cause an inquiry to be made: <ul> <li>on application under section 9 of the Act (see question 5B)</li> <li>whenever the Commissioner has reason to believe that an offence has been, or is about to be, committed; or</li> <li>whenever directed by the Minister of Innovation, Science and Economic Development to inquire into the above.</li> </ul> </li> </ul>
B. Are complaints required to be made in a specific form (e.g. by phone, in writing, on a form, etc.)?	Generally, complaints are not required to be made in a specific form. However, a six-resident application for the Commissioner to commence an inquiry under section 9 of the Act must be accompanied by a statement in the form of a solemn or statutory declaration providing: (a) the names and addresses of the applicants; (b) the nature of the allegation and the names of the persons believed to be concerned therein and privy thereto; and (c) a concise statement of the evidence supporting the allegation.
C. Legal requirements for lodging a complaint against a cartel:	There are no legal requirements for lodging a complaint alleging a cartel. As noted above, an application by six persons resident in Canada for the Commissioner to commence an inquiry may be made pursuant to section 9 of the Act. Section 9 of the Act sets out certain requirements. See response to question 5B.
D. Is the investigating agency obliged to take action on each complaint that it receives or does it have discretion in this respect?	Section 10 of the Act provides that the Commissioner shall cause an inquiry to be made into all such matters as the Commissioner considers necessary to inquire into with the view of determining the facts: -on application made under section 9; -whenever the Commissioner has reason to believe that an offence has been or is about to be committed; or -when directed by the Minister.
	The Commissioner has some discretion in deciding whether it

E. If the agency intends not to pursue a complaint, is it required to adopt a decision addressed to the complainant explaining its reasons?	<ul> <li>is necessary to inquire into any matter, and can take into account factors consistent with the purpose of the Act (section 1.1).</li> <li>The Commissioner is not required to adopt a decision addressed to the complainant, although the Commissioner will typically notify the complainant of a decision not to pursue a complaint relating to a cartel. The Bureau's approach to communicating with different groups of people during its investigations, including complainants, will be outlined in the Information Bulletin on Transparency. This Bulletin will be available at https://www.competitionbureau.gc.ca once it has been finalized.</li> <li>Section 22 of the Act states that, if the Commissioner decides to discontinue an inquiry made on application under section 9 of the Act (six-resident complaint), the Commissioner shall advise the applicants of the decision and the grounds for the</li> </ul>

F. Is there a time limit counted from the date of receipt of a complaint by the competition agency for taking the decision on whether to investigate or reject it?	There is no time limit established under the Act.

6. Le	6. Leniency policy⁴
	at is the official name of Ir leniency policy (if any)?	The official name of Canada's immunity and leniency policies is "the Immunity and Leniency Programs under the Competition Act ". The Immunity and Leniency Bulletin provides information about these policies. It is available to the public at: https://www.competitionbureau.gc.ca/eic/site/cb- bc.nsf/eng/04391.html .

	o is eligible for full ency?	Only the first party (business organization or individual) who comes forward and meets all the requirements of the Immunity Program qualifies for full immunity (i.e., a grant of immunity from prosecution under the Act). If the first party fails to meet the requirements, a subsequent party that does meet the requirements may be recommended for immunity.

E. Who can be a beneficiary o the leniency program (individual / businesses)?	immunity.
F. What are the conditions of availability of full leniency:	As set out in the Immunity Program, the following requirements must be met:
	- The party must terminate its participation in the illegal activity.
	- The party must not have coerced others to be party to the illegal activity.
	- Companies and individuals must demonstrate that they were a party to the offence (as described in sections 21, 22 and 22.2 of the Criminal Code ).
	- The disclosed conduct must constitute an offence under the Act and be supported by credible and reliable evidence that demonstrates all elements of the offence.
	- Where the party requesting immunity is the only party involved in the offence it will not be eligible for immunity.
	Throughout the course of the Bureau's investigation and subsequent prosecution, the party must provide complete, timely and ongoing cooperation:
	a) Confidentiality - unless made public by the Commissioner or the DPP, or as required by law in Canada or elsewhere, the applicant shall not disclose its application for an immunity marker, its cooperation and subsequent grant(s) of immunity, or any related information, to a third party.
	b) Exhaustive internal investigation - the applicant must reveal any and all offences in which it may have been involved;
	c) Full, complete and truthful disclosure - the applicant must provide full, complete and truthful disclosure of all non- privileged information, evidence and records in its possession, under its control or available to it, wherever located, that in any manner relate to the unlawful conduct for which immunity is sought. Absent compelling reasons, an applicant is expected to identify all of the other jurisdictions where it has made a similar application for immunity or leniency. There must be no misrepresentation of any material facts.
	d) Witness cooperation - companies must take all lawful measures to secure the cooperation of current directors, officers and employees suspected of being involved in an offence for the duration of the investigation and any ensuing prosecution. Companies must also take all lawful measures to secure the cooperation of former directors, officers and employees as well as current and former agents suspected of being involved in the offence, where doing so will not jeopardize the investigation and where the company has the consent of the Bureau or the DPP. e) Financial commitment - parties must cooperate with the Bureau's investigation and any subsequent prosecution at their own expense.

G. What are the conditions of availability of partial leniency (such as reduction of sanction / fine / imprisonment):	The Bureau has a formal policy for partial leniency set out in the Leniency Program. Any individual or organization who has breached the cartel provisions under the Act and does not qualify for immunity can apply for leniency. The Bureau will recommend to the DPP that qualifying applicants be given lenient treatment for their complete, timely and ongoing cooperation with the Bureau's investigation and any subsequent prosecution. Leniency applicants may be entitled to a cooperation credit of up to 50%, to be applied to the base fine. The amount of credit award ed will be based on the value and timing of the applicant's cooperation. The DPP, in consultation with the Bureau, will determine whether to recommend a reduced sentence to the Court. The Court will make the final decision on sentence.
	Like the Immunity Program (see question 6F), there are certain eligibility conditions for an applicant to benefit from a lenient treatment recommendation to the DPP. The applicant must: - apply for leniency before the Bureau has referred the results of its investigation to the DPP for prosecution; - have terminated its participation in the cartel; - agree to cooperate fully and in a timely manner, at its own expense, with the Bureau's investigation and any subsequent prosecution; - demonstrate that it was a party to the offence; and - agree to plead guilty.
	A recommendation for leniency will only be made when the disclosed conduct constitutes an offence under the Act and is supported by credible and reliable evidence that demonstrates all elements of the offence.
H. Obligations for the beneficiary after the leniency application has been accepted:	See question 6N for information regarding "Immunity Plus". See questions 6F and 6G.
I. Are there formal requirements to make a leniency application?	Apart from meeting the requirements for leniency as set out in the Immunity and Leniency Programs, there are no specific requirements as to the form an application must take.
	The Bureau accepts both written and oral proffers in immunity and leniency applications. See questions 6F and 6G for additional information on the requirements to qualify for immunity or leniency.
J. Are there distinct procedural steps within the leniency program?	Immunity Process: Step 1: Initial Contact / Marker Request; Step 2: Proffer;

	Step 3: Grant of Interim Immunity (GII) Recommendation from the Bureau to the DPP; Step 4: GII by the DPP; Step 5: Full Disclosure and Cooperation Step 6: Immunity Recommendation from the Bureau to the DPP; Step 7: Final Grant of Immunity by the DPP. Leniency Process: Step 1: Initial Contact / Marker Request; Step 2: Proffer and Limited Disclosure (including witness interviews); Step 3: Leniency Recommendation from the Bureau to the DPP; Step 4: Plea Agreement between the DPP and Leniency Applicant; Step 5: Full Disclosure; Step 6: Court Proceedings - Entering the Plea; Step 7: Ongoing Cooperation and Testimony.
K. At which time during the application process is the applicant given certainty with respect to its eligibility for leniency, and how is this done?	See the response to question 6J.
L. What is the legal basis for the power to agree to grant leniency? Is leniency granted on the basis of an agreement or is it laid down in a (formal) decision? Who within the agency decides about leniency applications?	Immunity The DPP has the sole authority to grant immunity to a party implicated in an offence under the Act. The Bureau investigates the matter and makes a recommendation to the DPP. The DPP then independently considers if the interests of the public are best served by granting immunity. The DPP's policy on granting immunity for offences under the Act is explained in the PPSC deskbook available at: https://www.ppsc-sppc.gc.ca/eng/pub/fpsd-sfpg/index.html .
	Leniency The Bureau may recommend to the DPP that qualifying applicants be given lenient treatment. The DPP, in consultation with the Bureau, will determine whether to recommend a reduced sentence to the Court. The Court will make the final decision on sentence.
M. Do you have a marker <sup>5</sup> system? If yes, please describe it.	The Bureau does have a marker system (a policy rather than a law). An "immunity marker" is the confirmation given to an applicant that it is the first party to approach the Bureau requesting a recommendation of immunity with respect to an offence under the Act.
	A "leniency marker" is the acknowledgement given to a leniency applicant that records the date and time of a leniency applicant's application to the Leniency Program. It establishes the leniency applicant's position in line in relation to other individuals or organizations seeking to participate in the &lt;sup>5</sup> A marker protects an applicant's place in the queue for a given period of time and allows it to gather the necessary information and evidence in order to meet the relevant evidential threshold for immunity.

	Leniency Program.
	Immunity and leniency markers guarantee the applicant's position in line, subject to the applicants meeting all of the criteria of the Immunity or Leniency Programs.
	Markers may be requested for cartel offences by contacting the Deputy Commissioner of the Cartels Directorate. Typically, marker requests are made by an applicant's legal representative. An applicant can make the first contact on the basis of a limited hypothetical disclosure that identifies the nature of the criminal offence in respect of a specified product or business interest. The applicant's identity does not need to be disclosed until the marker is granted.
	The Bureau requires sufficient information to determine whether an applicant is "first-in" under the Immunity Program or qualifies for leniency under the Leniency Program. It does this by comparing the product or business interest description received to information in its marker database and determining if another party has already requested a marker for the same conduct.
	Once a marker is granted, the applicant then has 30 calendar days to provide the Bureau with a detailed statement, known as a "proffer", describing the unlawful conduct. In the proffer, an applicant describes in detail the unlawful conduct demonstrating each element of the offence, the applicant's role in the offence and the connection of the unlawful conduct to Canada. The applicant must also outline all of the supporting evidence and witnesses that it is aware that it can provide at that point in time.
N. Does the system provide for any extra credit <sup>6</sup> for disclosing additional violations?	If a leniency applicant discloses evidence of conduct constituting a further criminal offence under the Act unknown to the Bureau, the leniency applicant may be eligible for Immunity Plus status. If the leniency applicant meets the requirements set out in the Immunity Program regarding the newly-disclosed offence, the Bureau will recommend that the DPP grant the applicant immunity from prosecution with respect to the newly- disclosed offence.
	In addition, for second-in and later leniency applicants, the Bureau will recommend that any individuals qualifying under the Leniency Program be afforded further lenient treatment in respect of the offence for which leniency is being sought. In recognition of the leniency applicant's full cooperation in reporting the further offence, the Bureau will typically recommend that an additional five to ten percent be added to the applicant's leniency credit.
O. Is the agency required to keep the identity of the beneficiary confidential? If yes, please elaborate.	The confidentiality provisions of the Immunity and Leniency Programs provide that: The Bureau treats the identity of immunity and leniency applicants, or any information provided by the applicant, as confidential, except where:

&lt;sup>6</sup> Also known as: "leniency plus", "amnesty plus" or "immunity plus". This category covers situations where a leniency applicant, in order to get as lenient treatment as possible in a particular case, offers to reveal information about participation in a nother cartel distinct from the one which is the subject of its first leniency application.

in response to a court order. In the event of such an order, the Bureau will take all reasonable steps to protect the confidentiality of the information and the identity of the applicant, including seeking protective court orders. The Bureau will not disclose the identity of an immunity or leniency applicant or the information provided by that applicant to any foreign law enforcement agency without the consent of the applicant or unless required by law (e.g., in response to an order of a Canadian court of competent jurisdiction).
The Bulletin does not address the question of appeals and to date no decisions by the Bureau or the DPP to reject a leniency application have been contested in court.
Anyone wishing to apply under the Commissioner's Immunity or Leniency Programs with respect to cartel activity, may contact the following: Deputy Commissioner, Cartels Directorate Tel: 819-953-7765
Fax: 819-997-3835
As a result of the Bureau's recommendation, or on its own initiative, the DPP may revoke a Grant of Interim Immunity (GII) or a plea agreement (in the case of leniency applicants) where the applicant does not meet all of the terms and conditions of the GII or plea agreement (see sections F and G), and take further action against the applicant as appropriate in the circumstances. Where the DPP determines that the applicant has failed to fulfil the terms and conditions set out in the GII or the plea agreement, the DPP will provide a minimum of 14 calendar days' notice to the applicant so that it has an opportunity to remedy its failure before it is revoked. Revocation of a GII or plea agreement will affect only the individual or organization that fails to comply with it. There may also be circumstances under which the Bureau, in consultation with the DPP, rescinds its recommendation to the DPP for lenient treatment.

	The Bureau may resume investigating a party who has agreed to co-operate but does not fulfil its obligations under the agreement and may thereafter refer the matter to the DPP.
S. Does your policy allow for "affirmative leniency", that is the possibility of the agency approaching potential leniency applicants?	The Immunity and Leniency Programs do not specifically address the issue of "affirmative leniency" nor does it preclude the possibility for "affirmative leniency". The Bureau's Programs are designed to encourage potential applicants to come forward and to disclose their participation in an offence. In certain circumstances, the Bureau may advise companies or individuals (through letters or unscheduled meetings) that they are the subject of an investigation and provide information about the Programs in the event that the party would like to apply for immunity or leniency. The decision to apply for immunity or leniency remains with the potential applicants.
T. Does your authority have rules to protect leniency material from disclosure? If yes, please elaborate which parts are protected and what does protection actually mean.	See question 60 for a description of the confidentiality provisions in the Immunity and Leniency Programs. Once criminal charges are laid, there is a general duty on the part of the Crown to disclose to an accused person all material it proposes to use at trial and all evidence which may assist the accused even if the Crown does not propose to adduce it. The Crown's obligation to disclose is not absolute: only relevant information need be disclosed, and information which is relevant to the defence may be withheld on the basis of the existence of a legal privilege. For more detail, see the PPSC Deskbook at: https://www.ppsc-sppc.gc.ca/eng/pub/fpsd- sfpg/fps-sfp/tpd/p2/ch05.html.
	The Immunity and Leniency Programs outline the process for handling claims of solicitor-client privilege. The Immunity and Leniency Programs make it clear that the identity of, and information obtained from, an Applicant will typically remain confidential until charges are laid against other participants to the offence and disclosure of the Crown's case to the accused is required. The courts have affirmed that factual information provided to the Crown by Immunity and Leniency Applicants must be disclosed to the accused. However, other information, such as legal opinions or negotiations over the precise wording of plea agreements, do not have to be disclosed (see R. v. Nestlé Canada Inc. , 2015 ONSC 810).

7. Settlement

A. Does your competition regime allow settlement?	Yes, settlements outside of the leniency program are possible, subject to court approval. PPSC counsel are responsible for conducting all plea and sentencing discussions in accordance
If yes, please indicate its public availability (link to the relevant rules, guidelines,	with the PPSC Deskbook (available at: https://www.ppsc-sppc.gc.ca/eng/pub/fpsd-sfpg/index.html ). While the Bureau's recommendations are given significant consideration in the negotiation of guilty plea agreements, they are not binding on etc.).	the PPSC or the court.

B. Which types of restrictive agreements are eligible for settlement?	Any criminal charge under the Act may be resolved by way of a settlement/plea agreement.
C. What is the reward of the settlement for the parties?	Generally, a plea of guilty is a mitigating factor when determining a sentence. Settlements can also avoid the delay, cost and uncertainties of a criminal trial.
D. May a reduction for settling be cumulated with a leniency reward?	A business organization or an individual can either settle a matter pursuant to the Leniency Program (before the Bureau has referred the results of its investigation to the DPP for prosecution) or outside of it. From a sentencing perspective, the accused will typically benefit from more lenient treatment if it has cooperated with the Bureau and provided evidence in the investigation (i.e., as a leniency applicant), as opposed to an accused who decides to plead guilty after being charged. Such cooperation may also reduce the stigma that may be associated with a guilty plea.
E. List the criteria (if there is any) determining the cases which are suitable for settlement.	PPSC counsel are responsible for conducting all plea and sentencing discussions. The principles guiding their resolution discussions are outlined in the PPSC Deskbook (available at: https://www.ppsc-sppc.gc.ca/eng/pub/fpsd-sfpg/index.html ).
F. Describe briefly the system.	PPSC counsel are responsible for conducting all plea and sentencing discussions, following the PPSC Deskbook (available at: https://www.ppsc-sppc.gc.ca/eng/pub/fpsd- sfpg/index.html ). Either the PPSC or the parties may initiate settlement negotiations. As outlined in the PPSC Deskbook, because of the benefits that flow to the administration of justice from early guilty pleas, Crown counsel should make, as soon as practicable, a time-limited settlement offer. This offer should reflect the fact that generally a plea of guilty is a mitigating factor on sentence, especially where the accused pleads guilty at the earliest opportunity. The PPSC is not obliged to enter into a settlement agreement if the parties initiate settlement discussions. The PPSC Deskbook outlines the factors considered before reaching a settlement. Any plea agreements and sentences must be
G. Describe the procedural efficiencies of your settlement system.	approved by the court. See question 7C.
H. Does a settlement necessitate that the parties acknowledge their liability for the violation?	Yes. As outlined in the PPSC Deskbook ( https://www.ppsc-sppc.gc.ca/eng/pub/fpsd-sfpg/index.html ), Crown counsel may engage in sentence negotiations where the accused is willing to acknowledge guilt unequivocally, and the consent of the accused to plead guilty is both voluntary and informed.
I. Is there a possibility for settled parties to appeal a settlement decision at court?	Plea agreements and sentences must be approved by the court. A person who is convicted on the basis of a guilty plea may appeal that conviction and seek to withdraw his or her plea. In rare circumstances, the Crown can repudiate a plea agreement (this could be subject to judicial review).

8. Commitment

<ul> <li>A. Does your competition regime allow the possibility of commitment?</li> <li>If yes, please indicate its public availability.</li> </ul>	In civil matters under the Act, negotiated settlements are often formalized in a consent agreement registered with the Competition Tribunal so that the terms are enforceable in a court setting. In certain circumstances, the Bureau may consider addressing civil anti-competitive conduct through an undertaking. See https://www.competitionbureau.gc.ca/eic/site/cb- bc.nsf/eng/h_04456.html for more detail.
B. Which types of restrictive agreements are eligible for commitment?	Consent agreements are available for civil matters under the Competition Act , including section 90.1 (agreements or arrangements that prevent or lessen competition substantially).
Are there violations which are excluded from the commitment possibility?
C. List the criteria (if there are any) determining the cases which are suitable for commitment.	Not applicable to the conspiracy or bid-rigging provisions.
D. Describe, which types of commitments are available under your competition law.	Not applicable to the conspiracy or bid-rigging provisions.
E. Describe briefly the system.	Not applicable to the conspiracy or bid-rigging provisions.
F. Does a commitment decision necessitate that the parties acknowledge their liability for the violation?	Not applicable to the conspiracy or bid-rigging provisions.
G. Describe how your authority monitors the parties' compliance to the commitments.	Not applicable to the conspiracy or bid-rigging provisions.
H. Is there a possibility for parties to appeal a commitment decision at court?	Not applicable to the conspiracy or bid-rigging provisions.

9. Investigative powers of the enforcing institution(s)<sup>7</sup>

A. Briefly describe the investigative measures	(subpoenas) available to the enforcing agency such as requests for information, searches/raids <sup>8</sup> , electronic or computer searches, expert opinion, etc. and indicate whether such measures requires a court warrant.	There are three types of orders under section 11 of the Act. Paragraph 11(1)(a) requires a person to give testimony under oath before a presiding officer. Paragraph 11(1)(b) requires a person or a corporation to provide records or other things. Paragraph 11(1)(c) requires written answers to questions set out in the order. To obtain an order under section 11 of the Act, a judge must be satisfied by information on oath or solemn affirmation that the Commissioner has commenced an inquiry and that the person or corporation named in the order has, or is likely to have, information relevant to the inquiry. Subsection 11(2) provides that a corporate party named in the order must provide records or written returns being sought from its affiliates, including foreign affiliates, if the affiliate has or is likely to have records or information relevant to the inquiry.

	The Bureau may also obtain production orders pursuant to section 487.014 of the Code.
	b) Search and Seizure
	Section 15 of the Act provides the Commissioner with the power to apply to the courts for a warrant authorizing representatives of the Commissioner to enter premises to search for records or other things, and copy or seize for examination or copying those falling within the scope of the warrant.
	Section 16 of the Act authorizes the search of computer systems. Electronic records may be reproduced or they may be caused to be reproduced from data in the form of a printout or other intelligible output. The printout or other output may be seized for examination or copying.
	Pursuant to section 15 of the Act, on an ex parte application by the Commissioner, a judge may issue a warrant if satisfied by information on oath or solemn affirmation that there are reasonable grounds to believe that an offence has been, or is about to be, committed and that there are reasonable grounds to believe that relevant records are located at the premises to be searched.
	Following the execution of the search warrant, where records or other things are seized, the Commissioner shall, as soon as practicable, take the record or other thing before the judge or make a report to the judge describing the record or other thing seized, the premises searched and the location in which the records or things are detained (section 17 of the Act).
	The Bureau may also obtain search warrants pursuant to section 487 of the Code.
	c) Experts
	Section 25 of the Act allows the Commissioner to employ temporary technical and special assistants.

&lt;sup>8</sup> "Searches/raids" means all types of search, raid or inspection measures.

	d) Interception of Private Communications (Wiretap)
	Sections 184.2 and 186 of the Code, which covers the interception of private communications (wiretap), can be used in the context of investigations under sections 45 (conspiracy) and 47 (bid-rigging) of the Act, among other offences, provided that specific legal criteria are met.
	Pursuant to section 185 of the Code, the Attorney General or a specially designated agent, on behalf of the Bureau, can apply for judicial authorization to intercept private communications. Section 186 provides that judicial authorization may be given if the judge is satisfied that it would be in the best interests of the administration of justice to do so and that other investigative procedures have been tried and have failed, other investigative procedures are unlikely to succeed, or the urgency of the matter is such that it would be impractical to carry out the investigation using only other investigative procedures. Judicial authorization is required whether or not the originator of the private communications, or the person intended by the originator to receive the communications, has consented to the interception.
	e) Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty Requests Mutual Legal Assistance Treaties (MLATs) are useful tools to gather evidence located in foreign jurisdictions as they permit law enforcers to request formal assistance from each other in relation to the gathering of evidence, including documents, affidavits and witness testimony; lending of exhibits; s earch and seizure; and other areas. The Mutual Legal Assistance in Criminal Matters Act (MLACMA) gives Canada the legal authority to obtain court orders on behalf of countries that are parties to MLATs with Canada. MLATs are not specific to competition matters. The Minister of Justice (International Assistance Group) plays a pivotal role as Canada's "central authority" in the administration of the MLACMA and MLATs. The Minister of Justice approves the sending of an MLAT request to a central authority in another jurisdiction. The MLATs to which Canada is a signatory can be found at: http://www.treaty-accord.gc.ca .
	f) Extradition involves the surrender of persons to or from Canada. Canada may seek extradition from other countries under a bilateral treaty (e.g., the United States) or on the basis of reciprocity (e.g., the United Kingdom).
B. Can private locations, such as residences, automobiles, briefcases and persons be searched, raided or inspected? Does this require authorisation by a court?	Under the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms (the Charter), everyone has the right to be secure against unreasonable search and seizure. A search will be considered reasonable if the search is authorized by law pursuant to section 15 of the Act and is carried out in a reasonable manner.
	A warrant does not confer any power to arrest or search individuals present at the search premises. However, it can confer power to search private residences, automobiles and brief cases as long as it is within the scope of the search warrant.
	A search can be executed without a warrant if the things to be seized are in plain view or where by reason of exigent circumstances it would not be practical to obtain a search warrant (subsection 15(7) of the Act).

C. Can servers located outside the territory (abroad or in a cloud) be inspected? Are there special rules for this investigative power? Please explain!	Data located outside of Canada can be searched if it can be accessed by the computer system in Canada. Subsection 16(1) of the Act states that, "A person who is authorized pursuant to subsection 15(1) to search premises for a record may use or cause to be used any computer system on the premises to search any data contained in or available to the computer system , may reproduce the record or cause it to be reproduced from the data in the form of a printout or other intelligible output and may seize the printout or other output for examination or copying."
D. May evidence not falling under the scope of the authorisation allowing the inspection be seized / used as evidence in another case? If yes, under which circumstances (e.g. is a post-search court warrant needed)?	In most circumstances, another warrant (pursuant to sections 15 or 16 of the Act) would have to be obtained in order to be able to seize the additional evidence. However, as mentioned in the response to question 9B, a search can be executed without a warrant if the things to be seized are in plain view or where by reason of exigent circumstances it would not be practical to obtain a search warrant.
E. Have there been significant legal challenges to your use of investigative measures authorized by the courts? If yes, please briefly describe them.	<ul> <li>Challenges regarding the use of orders under section 11 of the Act have been based on grounds that include the following:</li> <li>failure to comply with the threshold requirements;</li> <li>violation of section 7 of the Charter (life, liberty and security of person);</li> <li>violation of section 8 of the Charter (right to be secure against unreasonable search or seizure);</li> <li>violation of section 13 of the Charter (protection against self-incrimination); and</li> <li>violation of section 2(d) of the Canadian Bill of Rights (protection against self-incrimination).</li> <li>Challenges regarding the search and seizure powers under sections 15 and 16 have been based on grounds including the following:</li> <li>abuse of process arguments linked to the use of a confidential informant; and</li> <li>facial invalidity of the affidavit used to obtain the warrant</li> </ul>

10. Procedural rights of businesses / individuals

imprisoned (section 9), the right to retain counsel on arrest or detention (section 10) and protection against self-incrimination (section 13).	A. Key rights of defence in cartel cases:	detention (section 10) and protection against self-incrimination pursuant to an order made under section 11 shall be used or received against the individual in any criminal proceedings thereafter instituted against that person (other than a prosecution under the Code for perjury or giving contradictory evidence). Subsection 12(3) of the Act provides that a presiding officer shall permit a person who is being examined pursuant to an order under paragraph 11(1)(a) and any person whose conduct is being inquired into to be represented by counsel. Subsection 12(4) provides that any person whose conduct is being inquired into at an examination pursuant to an order under paragraph 11(1)(a) and that person's counsel are entitled to attend the examination unless it is established that the presence of the person whose conduct is being inquired into a the effective conduct of the examination or the inquiry or result in the disclosure of confidential commercial information that relates to the business of the person being examined or his/her employer. Section 50 of the Canada Evidence Act provides that any person examined under any order made under Part II of the Canada Evidence Act (which applies to the taking of evidence relating to proceedings in courts out of Canada) has the right to refuse to answer questions tending to criminate him/herself. It is a fundamental element of the fair and proper operation of the Canadian criminal justice system as established by the jurisprudence that an accused person has the right to the disclosure of all relevant information in the possession or control of the DPP, whether inculpatory or exculpatory, unless <ul> <li>there is a legally justifiable basis for withholding it (e.g., privileged, personal or irrelevant information).</li> <li>In practice, in the context of inquiries under the Act, the evidence in the possession of the DPP required to be disclosed is the evidence collected by the Bureau during its inquiry.</li> <li>Subsection 10(3) of the Act provides that all inquiries shall be</li> </ul>

<ul> <li>conducted in private.</li> <li>Section 29 of the Act states that no person shall communicate or allow to be communicated to any other person: <ul> <li>the identity of the person from whom information was obtained;</li> <li>information obtained pursuant to sections 11 (orders), 15 (search and seizure), 16 (search and seizure of electronic evidence); and</li> <li>information provided voluntarily under the Act.</li> </ul> </li> </ul>
Section 29 of the Act further provides that information that would otherwise be required to be kept confidential may be communicated to a Canadian law enforcement agency or for the purposes of the administration or enforcement of the Act. The Immunity and Leniency Programs both contain confidentiality provisions (see question 60 above). See the Bureau's Information Bulletin on the Communication of Confidential Information under the Competition Act at http://www.competitionbureau.gc.ca/eic/site/cb-bc.nsf/eng/03597.html .

If a trial is held, it may be possible for confidential records to be protected from public disclosure through publication bans, confidentiality orders, confidential schedules to public documents or in camera proceedings.

11.	11. Limitation periods and deadlines
	What is the limitation period (if any) from the date of the termination of the infringement by which the investigation / proceedings must begin or a decision on the merits of the case must be made?	The Act does not set out a limitation period in relation to the termination of the infringement and the commencement of an investigation or decision on the merits in relation to sections 45 to 47 of the Act.
	What is the deadline, statutory or otherwise (if any) for the completion of an investigation or to make a decision on the merits?	There is no statutory deadline for the completion of an investigation or to make a decision on the merits in relation to sections 45 to 47 of the Act. However, limits have been established under case law once charges have been laid (after the investigation has been completed). In 2016, the Supreme Court of Canada adopted a new analytical framework based on a ceiling beyond which delay – from the charge to the actual or anticipated end of trial – is presumed to be unreasonable, unless exceptional circumstances justify it. That presumptive ceiling is 18 months for cases tried in the provincial court, and 30 months for cases in the superior court (or cases tried in the provincial court after a preliminary inquiry) ( R. v. Jordan , 2016 SCC 27, [2016] 1 S.C.R. 631).
	What are the deadlines, statutory or otherwise (if any) to challenge the commencement or completion of an investigation or a decision regarding sanctions? (see also 15A)	There are relevant statutory time limitations under the process and practice regulations of the federal and provincial courts in Canada.

12. Types of decisions
A. List which types of decisions on the merits of the case can be made in cartel cases under the laws listed under Section 1.	Accused persons found guilty of an offence under section 45 of the Act (conspiracy) may be sentenced to prison for a maximum of 14 years and/or a fine not exceeding $25 million. When the amendments come into force on June 23, 2023, the fine will be in the discretion of the court.
	The maximum penalties for section 47 (bid-rigging) are a fine in the discretion of the court and/or imprisonment for 14 years.

	Corporations guilty of section 46 (foreign directives) of the Act may receive a fine in the discretion of the court. Individuals cannot be found guilty of an offence or fined under section 46 of the Act.
	Under subsection 34(1) of the Act, where a person has been convicted of a conspiracy offence under the Act, the court may (in addition to any other penalty imposed) prohibit the continuation or repetition of the offence or prohibit the doing of any act or thing directed toward the continuation or repetition of the offence.
	Under subsection 34(2) of the Act, where a court is satisfied that a person has done, is about to do or is likely to do any act or thing constituting or directed toward the commission of a conspiracy offence under the Act, the court may prohibit the commission of the offence or the doing or continuation of any act or thing constituting or directed toward the commission of the offence.
	Prohibition Orders may also include prescriptive terms requiring positive steps or acts to ensure compliance with the law, such as, implementing a corporate compliance program.
B. List any other types of decisions on the merits of the case relevant particularly in hardcore cartel cases under the laws listed under Section 1 (if different from those listed under 12/A).	See question 12A.
C. Can interim measures <sup>9</sup> be ordered during the proceedings in cartel cases? (if different measures for hardcore cartels please describe both <sup>10</sup> .) Subsection 34(2) of the Act provides that where a court is satisfied that a person has done, is about to do or is likely to commit an offence under Part VI of the Act, which includes sections 45 to 47, it may issue a prohibition order. The order may prohibit a person from committing the offence or the doing or continuation of any act by the person or any other person constituting or directed toward the commission of an offence.

D. Criteria for determining the In addition to the legislated parameters under the Act and the guideness given in the Legisnary Bulletin, section 718 of the guidance given in the Lehiency Bulletin, section 718 of the Code sets out the purpose and principles of sentencing:
The fundamental purpose of sentencing is to protect society and to contribute, along with crime prevention initiatives, to respect for the law and the maintenance of a just, peaceful and safe society by imposing just sanctions that have one or more of the following objectives:
(a) to denounce unlawful conduct and the harm done to victime or to the community that is caused by unlawful conduct;

	(b) to deter the offender and other persons from committing offences;
	(c) to separate offenders from society, where necessary;
	(d) to assist in rehabilitating offenders;
	(e) to provide reparations for harm done to victims or the community; and
	(f) to promote a sense of responsibility in offenders, and acknowledgement of the harm done to victims and to the community.
	According to section 718.1 of the Code, a sentence must be proportionate to the gravity of the offence and the degree of responsibility of the offender.
	Paragraph 718.2(b) of the Code provides that a sentence should be similar to sentences imposed on similar offenders for similar offences committed in similar circumstances.
	Section 718.21 lists additional factors that a court shall consider in sentencing an organization:
	(a) any advantage realized by the organization as a result of the offence:
	(b) the degree of planning involved in carrying out the offence and the duration and complexity of the offence;
	(c) whether the organization has attempted to conceal its assets, or convert them, in order to show that it is not able to pay a fine or make restitution;
	(d) the impact that the sentence would have on the economic viability of the organization and the continued employment of its employees; (e) the cost to public authorities of the investigation and prosecution of the offence;
	(f) any regulatory penalty imposed on the organization or one of its representatives in respect of the conduct that formed the basis of the offence;

administrative, criminal, combined):	Offences under section 45 (price fixing, market allocation, output restriction) are punishable by fines up to $25 million and a term of imprisonment of up to 14 years.
On whom can sanctions be imposed?	When the amendments come into force on June 23, 2023, wage fixing and no poaching agreements among employers will also be criminal offences (subsection 45 (1.1)). In addition, fines for section 45 offences will not be limited by a statutory maximum but will be set in the discretion of the court.
	Bid-rigging under section 47 of the Act is punishable by a fine at the discretion of the court and imprisonment for a term not exceeding fourteen years or both.
	Upon conviction, the court can also issue a prohibition order pursuant to section 34 of the Act to prohibit repetition of the offence in the future.
	Fines can be imposed on both companies and individuals.
	Individuals may also be subject to imprisonment, or alternative measures such as probation or community service.
	Corporations convicted of offences under section 46 of the Act (implementation of foreign directives to fix prices, allocate markets, restrict output) are liable to a fine in the discretion of the court.
B. Criteria for determining the sanction / fine:	Sections 718, 718.1, 718.2 and 718.21 of the Code set out the principal purpose and principles of sentencing (see response to question 13D).
	The following specific sentencing factors have been pleaded in previous conspiracy cases and are well accepted:
	<ul> <li>the size and influence of the accused, both specifically in the conspiracy and, more generally, in terms of market share, sales and affected volume of commerce;</li> <li>the role of the accused in the offence, whether they initiated or resisted participation in the offence;</li> <li>the duration of the conspiracy is very significant: the longer the conspiracy, the greater the profit and the greater the economic harm;</li> </ul>
	<ul> <li>geographical scope of the market;</li> <li>the nature of the product or service;</li> <li>recidivism or recent convictions of criminal conduct, degree of planning, efforts to conceal and the complexity of the cartel conduct as serious aggravating factors;</li> <li>factors in mitigation include the extent of cooperation with the Crown, restitution, the timeliness of cooperation and ability to pay.</li> </ul>
C. Are there maximum and / or minimum sanctions / fines?	See response to question 14A.
D. Guideline(s) on calculation of fines:	Canada does not have legislated sentencing guidelines. However, the Bureau does provide guidance regarding its approach to the calculation of fines to recommend to the DPP within the Leniency Program.
	Sections 718, 718.1, 718.2 and 718.21 of the Code set out the principal purpose and principles of sentencing (see response to question 13D).

E. Does a challenge to a decision imposing a sanction / fine have an automatic suspensory effect on that sanction / fine? If it is necessary to apply for suspension, what are the criteria?	There is no automatic suspension of the sentence when an application for leave to appeal is made before the Court of Appeal. Subsection 683(5) of the Code states that the court may, where it considers it to be in the interests of justice, order that any obligation to pay a fine or a conditional sentence order under section 742.1 of the Code be suspended until the appeal has been determined. The interests of justice do not refer exclusively to the merits of the appeal and include the interests of the state, and the public's confidence in and respect for the court in its administration of the criminal law.
	Pursuant to section 679 of the Code, a person found guilty and sentenced to a prison term may apply for release pending the determination of his/her appeal against sentence. The person must establish under subsection 679(4) of the Code that his/her appeal has sufficient merit that it would cause unnecessary hardship if he/she were detained in custody, he/she will surrender him/herself into custody in accordance with the terms of the order, and his/her detention is not necessary in the public interest.

15. Possibilities of app	eal
A. Does your law provide for an appeal against a decision that there has been a violation of a prohibition of cartels? If yes, what are the grounds of appeal, such as questions of law or fact or breaches of procedural requirements?	Section 675(1)(a) of the Code provides for a right of appeal from a conviction for an indictable offence (includes sections 45 to 47 of the Act) based on questions of law or fact.
B. Before which court or agency should such a challenge be made?	Appeals are to the provincial or federal court of appeal, whichever is appropriate. A decision of a court of appeal may be appealed to the Supreme Court of Canada, with permission or leave to appeal.

16. Private enforcement

A. Are private enforcement of competition law and private damage claims possible in your jurisdiction? If there is no legal provision for private enforcement and damage claims, what are the reasons for it?	Yes. Section 36 of the Act provides a right of private action for the recovery of damages. This remedy is available if there has been a violation of the criminal provisions of the Act, or a failure to comply with an order of the Tribunal or a prohibition order issued by a court. Recovery in proceedings under this provision can be equal to the loss or damage suffered by the plaintiff.

D. On what grounds can a private antitrust cause of action arise? / In what types of antitrust matters are private actions available?	See question 16A.
<ul> <li>E. What pleading standards must the plaintiff meet to file a stand-alone or follow-on claim?</li> <li>is a finding of infringement by a competition agency required to initiate a private antitrust action in your jurisdiction? What is the effect of a finding of infringement by a competition agency on national courts/tribunals?</li> <li>if a finding of infringement by competition authority is required, is it also required that decision to be judicially finalised?</li> </ul>	Under section 36 of the Act, any person who has suffered loss or damage as a result of conduct contrary to the criminal provisions of the Act may sue and recover damages from the person who engaged in the conduct. Private actions may be initiated when there has been a criminal conviction in respect of the same matter or independently ("stand-alone"). Once a person is convicted of a criminal offence under the Act, the record of the criminal proceedings may be used by the plaintiff in the private action to establish prima facie proof of the wrongdoing and its effects on the plaintiff. The standard of proof for cases under section 36 of the Act is on the balance of probabilities.
F. Are private actions available where there has been a criminal conviction in respect of the same matter?	Yes. See question 16E.
G. Do immunity or leniency applicants in competition investigations receive any beneficial treatment in follow- on private damages cases?	In Canada, the term "immunity" means full immunity from prosecution. The term "leniency" refers to lenient treatment upon sentencing for subsequent qualifying applicants who are required to plead guilty under the program. Immunity and leniency applicants are not explicitly protected from follow-on private damages cases. As described in Question 16E, subsection 36(2) of the Act states that the record of proceedings in any court in which a person was convicted of an offence is, in the absence of any evidence to the contrary, proof that the person engaged in conduct that was contrary to a criminal provision of the Act. This applies whether the conviction was the result of a negotiated plea agreement or a contested trial. This impacts leniency applicants as, under the terms of the Leniency Program, they are required to enter a guilty plea in court (the DPP and defence counsel typically make a joint s entencing submission). However, immunity applicants do not plead guilty.

I. Information about class action opportunities	Plaintiffs may commence class action proceedings alleging violations of the Act's criminal provisions.
J. Role of your competition agency in private enforcement actions (if at all)	The Bureau does not have an active role in private actions, but in rare circumstances, the Bureau may get involved depending on the circumstances. As described in Question 16L, the Bureau will not voluntarily provide information to persons contemplating or initiating a section 36 action.
<ul> <li>K. What is the evidentiary burden on plaintiff to quantify the damages? What evidence is admissible?</li> <li>Role of your competition agency in the damage calculation (if at all)</li> </ul>	The standard of proof for cases under section 36 of the Act is on the balance of probabilities. The Bureau does not play a role in the damage calculation. As mentioned in Question 16E, once a person is convicted of a criminal offence under the Act, the record of the criminal proceedings may be used by the plaintiff in the private action to establish prima facie proof of the wrongdoing and its effects on the plaintiff.
<ul> <li>L. Discovery / disclosure issues:</li> <li>can plaintiff obtain access to competition authority or prosecutors' files or documents collected during investigations?</li> <li>is your competition agency obliged to disclose to the court the file of the case (in follow- on cases)?</li> <li>summary of the rules regulating the disclosure of confidential information by the competition agency to the court</li> </ul>	To protect the integrity of the Bureau's investigative process and the confidentiality of information in its possession, it is the Bureau's general position to not voluntarily provide information to persons contemplating, or who are parties to, proceedings under section 36 of the Act. If served with a subpoena, the Bureau will inform the information provider so it has knowledge of, and an opportunity to intervene. The Bureau will, if appropriate, oppose a subpoena for production of information if compliance would potentially interfere with an ongoing examination, inquiry or enforcement proceeding or otherwise adversely affect the administration or enforcement of the Act. If the Bureau's opposition is unsuccessful, it will seek protective court orders to maintain the confidentiality of the information in question. For more detail, see the Confidentiality Bulletin (available at: https://www.competitionbureau.gc.ca/eic/site/cb- bc.nsf/eng/03597.html) and https://www.competitionbureau.gc.ca/eic/site/cb- bc.nsf/eng/04314.html.
